license.

Citizens want a sewer put on F street, between Ninth and Tenth streets southwest.

A mad dog was killed in the cellar of Standford's drug store, corner Ninth and F streets, yesterday afternoon.

Col. Roswell intends to remove the high railing from the Thirteenth street reservation of the city hall.

The citizens of K street, between Second and Third streets northeast, have petitioned the commissioners for more street lamps.

A small fire in a lumber pile at the corner

Twenty-ninth and R streets caused an alarm of fire at 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning.

A delegation of plumbers yesterday complained to the commissioners of the formality required in securing permits to lay sewers.

A black leather satchel containing $1 in cash and clothing worth $1.25 was stolen from Jacob L. Curry, who was riding in a belt line car, Tuesday.

A set of photographs showing the Washington monument in various stages of completion, including the finished shaft, has been made for exhibition at the New Orleans exposition.

Bids were opened in the commissioners' office yesterday for furnishing three new fire engines to the district. There were four bidders, and the bids were referred to Chief Cronin for report.

The commissioners are examining into the legal rights of the street railway companies as to their occupancy of certain streets, it being claimed that they are using some streets without authority.

Louis Starr, Bennett Kassena, and Henry

Fry, three leading critics of the tramp vagrancy law, who claimed to earn a living as street sweepers, yesterday sent down for ninety days for vagrancy.

The oldest inmate of St. Elizabeth's insane asylum, John Howe, who had been there seventy-seven years, died Monday night. He was a member of Harmony lodge, L. O. O. F., of the city.

The inland and seaboard steamship company having agreed to have all of its plying done in this city by union men, the boys and men of the New York, Lake and Western by the labor union has been raised.

Ben Crowley, the young white man who was recently charged with a murder, was yesterday sentenced to a term of one year in the penitentiary, for the murder of a black man, John

Parker, the pension office clerk for blackmailing, who was shot by Judge Smith yesterday for being a vagrant and an idle and dissolute person, and fined $20 or ninety days at the penitentiary.

Charles W. Atkinson, a clean shaven, white man, about 40 years of age, intended to go to the hospital yesterday, he told Judge Smith that he was a vagrant and an idle and dissolute person, and fined $20 or ninety days at the penitentiary.

William Garner, who keeps a store at the corner of Ninth and F streets, was yesterday sentenced to a term of one year in the peni-

for being a vagrant and an idle and dissol-

penitentiary.

Philip and Kate Korman had a difference of opinion the other night which led to both appearing yesterday before Judge Smith for using revolvers. The judge declared a divorce between them, and fined each $100 or ninety days at the penitentiary.

The clerk of the court has received from the clerk of the United States court at New York, a communication acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the proceedings of the trial of the case of the United States court at

New York, in which his honor, Mr. William B. Taylor, was released, and Mr. Taylor at the suggestion of the department of justice, discharged on his personal recogni-

TEMPERATURE OF THE POLICE COURT.

He will occupy that position during Judge Smith's absence in Maine, where he is to spend his summer vacation and remain until after the September state election. He leaves with his wife for New England today.

WITNESS FEES.

They Are Paid in the Police Court in Policy and Liquor Cases.

I have three witness certificates which I will sell for 15 cents, said a young member of the bar to a group of half a dozen capitalists, including a Republican reporter, yesterday afternoon. Either there was not sufficient money in the crowd, or the investment was not considered safe for no one took. The liberal offer of a paper of a face value of $75 for 15 cents.

The question of the payment of witness fees in the police court seemed, on inquiry, to be in a very much mixed condition. District Commissioner West, to whom the reporter was referred by several friends, said he had been no reason why all district witnesses in the police court should not be paid, if any order had been issued by the clerk at the police court or district auditor he knew nothing of it.

President Edmonds evaded the question at first by referring to the necessity which existed at the close of the fiscal year to curtail disbursements for judicial purposes to the lowest limit. Then, he said, orders were given to pay none but such witnesses as had been induced to come into court by the promise of the fee. He afterwards acknowledged that this was a standing order, explaining that the cases referred to were against illicit liquor dealers and policy playing. He justified this practice on the ground that Congress only gave a small appropriation for the purpose, and that witnesses in the cases referred to can only be induced to testify by the promise of the fee. "We can test stationers or clergymen to testify in such cases," added Mr. Edmonds, but a witness in a case like this.

Capt. Price, clerk of the police court, said it would take $250 a year to pay the fees in the existing condition of business before the tribunal, while if that was to be connected with the law, it would be a day. People would get out warrants before justices of the peace, paying fifty cents each for them, and then, after a few days, would be charged a dollar in the fees of other witnesses.

He said all witnesses bring certificates from the clerk of the court. "The amount yesterday, last year it was about $2,000. We have nothing to do with United States cases."

The marshal office has nothing to do with police court cases, said a deputy of Col. Mc-Michael. "The law says they should be paid, but they never have been in this office."

Section 100 of the revised statutes of the United States relating to the District of Columbia provides that witnesses before the police court shall receive the same fees as are allowed for similar service and attendance in the supreme court of the district.

There are certain abuses connected with the payment of witnesses in the higher court. A short time since Judge Wylie, on motion of an attorney, ordered an attorney to be paid the payment of the witnesses for the defense. A commission of 10 per cent. was charged by the attorney and paid by the witnesses. The said no would take prompt action, but requested the deputy, who had seen and requested the transaction, to procure advancement upon which the court could act. This the deputy was unable to do, as his chief was not of the line of his duty, and he did not do it.

The matter has rested several weeks.

Prince Nicolas Tcherbatov,

First lieutenant imperial Russian navy, speaking of the celebration of the Liebig centenary at the Hotel de Ville, said: "It is a most excellent tonic." Edwin Bacon says: "Battered, but not broken." Invaluable in debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, and nervousness.
